DETAILED ACTION

Priority

Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Calton et al. (US 5,579,647). Calton is considered to disclose the claimed invention comprising:

a plurality of rotors 22 & 24 disposed in series, each of which is configured to carry an adsorbent thereon and is rotatably supported (wherein the disclosed desiccant is considered to anticipate the claimed adsorbent because remove moisture);

partition members which are arranged at outermost end portions of the rotors and between the rotors so as to partition a rotary zone of each rotor into an adsorption zone, a regeneration zone and a cooling zone (please see column 5 lines 51-65);

a driving member which rotatably drives the rotors (please see column 9 lines 31-36 and lines 44-51);

a supply passage which allows sucked air to pass through the adsorption zone to obtain dry air from which moisture and organic materials have been removed, and which supplies the dry air into the target space (please see column 10 lines 20-35); and an exhaust passage which allows a portion of the dry air to pass through the cooling zone, then heats the cooled air, and then allows the heated air to pass through the regeneration zone to separate the moisture and the organic materials from the adsorbent thereby (please see column 15 lines 16-52).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 2-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Calton in view of Ogasahara (US 5,242,473). Calton is considered to disclose the claimed invention, as discussed above under the anticipatory rejection, except for the claimed circumferential radial member fins and rotational speed settings. Ogasahara is considered to disclose circumferential radial member fins and rotational speed settings at column 4 lines 55-66. It would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to combine the teachings of Calton with the circumferential radial member fins and rotational speed settings, considered to be disclosed by Ogasahara, for the purpose of providing a sealing adsorbent desiccant relationship for an optimum rotational drying speed such that the regeneration and cooling of processed air is more effectively treated.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Reference C, cited in this action, is considered to disclose an adsorbent air treating process.
